From the Dails of Tucsday. I regret that Mr. Judy retires from the discussion so meexpectedly; just as we were getting at some important truths. a comparison of views between ministers and people can be carried on as pleasantly as it has been with Mr. Judy, much good may result from it. We learn to appreciate each other's ideas and motives better, and to examine more rarefully the theories we adopt. So long as men remain in hostile camps and sturdily unsintain a policy of non-infor-course lowards all who differ from them in ductrine or policy, they can do but ittie for each other.

Or if they meet in a friendly was in the public areas of discussion, "where mind with mind can blend and brightent" where ideas are put to the test in the order of argument, they can mutually learn the strength and weakness of their respective theories. Thought suggests thought, fast calls our fact, and thus the aggregate of thought and wealth of knowledge for both parties is augmented. Not other this, but the habit and power of thought is cultivated, as well as the expancity for estimating evidence and judging first. It is one of the thepty onems of our time that, in frequent instances, ministers can can have views with the people in a friendly way, and not, as formerly, with fire and sawel. Though they have not yet learned to disponse, entirely, with assumptions and opprobinous epilhets, they are moving in the right direction, and the prospect is hopeful.

ERRORS or ANTERT ACTURISON.

It is the misfortune of the cleary, that while the scople are largely emancipated from the childish errors of the world's infancy, the cleryy are still bound to the ancient mythology of the ancient mythology.

while the people are reported from the childish errors of the world's infancy, the clergy are still bound to the ancient mytholoay of the ancient Hehrews. That while the people are rejoicing in the light of the living present, they are still anchored to the dead past. That while the people exult in their freedom of thought and in the daily increasing light that surrounds them, they still him their chains of medieval creeks, and hook backward into darkness for light, and into the densest of past income for knowledge.

Instead of leading the whole people onward to the acquisition of more light, and more truth, they have fangle from the most of them. Is it not high time that his policy was changed? The people larve quite enough to do in helping on the world's progress, without having to contend with the ministers at every step.

In holier than then, "is as consocienous now as it was in the time of the Tharises. And yet they wonder why the people to not attend church. THE CHURCHES CAN DO GOOD.

The churches have organizations that if rightly employed might accomplish much for the whole people. They have buildings that might be used for the buildings that might be used for the benefit of the messes, instead of being reserved for the use of a more handful. They have ministus who, if they would work as hard for humanity as they now work for ancient error, might make themselves a hundred-fold more needed. They could not demand his release for the simple reason that he had virtually renounced his American citizenship and was again a British subject. He had come to this country poor and remained her until he accumulated moderate wealth; upon which he returned to his muivo land. He was invested with and empored the rights of citizenship while he resided in this country; but it does not appear that he discharged any except the least important of the obligations of a citizen. The benefit of the walth he had here among all polyalizated himself and his campaign to aid the election of Clevetand by his gross and mendacious attacks upon Blaine. His forte was to "rouse the hish heart" by his shameless misrepresentations and his story of the sufferings he had undergone in his mative land. "in the cause of Ireland."

His story was bosh. He had suffered by his own folly, as an unfaithful server of the Tory Government in humble local capacity, with hithe tenoisment and no honor. For his services in the campaign President Cleveland rewarded him with the office in San Francisco from which he has lately been deserveelly dismissed, owhich he was notorious by unworthy. It was, in fact, the importation of an impostor and a hireling to influence veles to Cleveland and against Blaine. He had reseed to be an American citizen; he is not now. He ought never to have been appointed.
His dismissal from the office was just and proper. The President and the Secretary of the Treasury are the responble officials; Secretary of State Blaine is not in any manner involved, but if he were he would be inby justified in the dismissal of the imported fraud and henchman.

ft. J. Chambers of Oleandor was in town last Monday visiting the packinghouses, with the view of disposing of his roop of dried apricots. Although the packers conceded that they were a prime article and well-dried and subplured, all that they would offer was 8% cents a pound. Mr. Chambers declined to sell at that price, for he received 12% cents a pound for his crop last year.

He reports that the Curtis Fruit Facking Company at Oleander will pack about 100,000 boxes of raisins this seuson. Mr. Chambers sud that thooked as if there was an understanding among packers that they should not overside one another. He found that they are all offering the Same price for dried thuit and raisins. He says that half a cent a pound is all that is being offered for green peaches.

If Diogonese had been in Fresno with his tub and landson he would have found at least one housest man. G. Ed. Colwell was sitting on the porch of his residence or Thine street last Sunday aftermon, thinking, perhaps, of the dark and devious ways pursued by some people and the uncertainties of journalism, when he was approached by an humthle appearing working man, attired in his labor-stained garb. He seemed considerably outburrussed as he said: "Alt. Colwell when the work on the job of painting your house the contractor allowed me to take a can of paint which helonged to you and also be charge uxtratime to which I was not entitled. I have some to pay what I know to be due to you." He had tears in his eyes as he spoke, and suiting the action to the world hind some silver come in Colwell's hunds, and, turning on his heels, walked away.

Mr. Colwell was so greatly untonished.

Joseph Togneri had Recorder Prince issue a warrant yesterday for the arrest of G. Mr. Dore came to Fresne from San Francisco five years ago, bringing with him a small capital, but a large fund of energy and determination. Mr. Dore built the first house in West Park, it such it may he called, and that rough, board shanly still stands a useful if not ornamental monument to Mr. Dore's piemeer labors.

For four years he lived in this primitive house, with one or two men in his employ, and loft his fundity in San Francisco until he could provide a suitable residence for them on his new farm. Besides his own, he took charge of and made improvements on adjacent furnationable by San Francisco friends, and had enough business on his hands for two less energetic men, but he worked persistently and intelligently, and his efforts have been crowned with success.

Third: That the engine with a feam and without a hose eart provided with a horas and driver is utterly useless.

Fourth: That the protection of the city will be enhanced far more by placing either a beater in the procent house for both engines, providing suitable sleeping apartments for extra freemen, purchasing swinging harners for the teams, or the erection of a fire alarm system.

And, histly, that the payment of $120 per month for the use of two horses at the few fires where the said engine is needed, is an exorbitant ligane, and the amount thus proposed to be expended can be more profitably used in either of the above ways.

From the above it will be seen that the remonstrance is not against the refor by the Fire Descriment, but as soon as some one outside wants a "pail at the sack." the purse is wide open.

Laxariously furnished rooms for the Buard to meet in once a week is all right, but the firemen are sompolled to steep in burn, combattless rooms, with no attempt made to provide even the smallest comforts, and absolutely no adequate accommodations for extra volumers are not possible to the ready on the instant at any hour of the might.

Let us have one house properly litted up, and then proceed to outfit enother in as complete a manner, and the firemen as well as citizens with lend their hearty co-operation.

Products and Profits on Forty Acre Which Pay for Improvements and Leave a Balauce.

There has been no system that has added more to the prosperity and future greatness of the state than the system of colonizing and dividing large tracts of ing of comfort and competence that sould not be estained in almost any other swenty areas will not only maintain a family, but, properly managed, will formath beside all the havines and comforts that a fragal and industrians people need. The Rear macus has heretoire eited many cases where non with infilines and not enough morey to jurgle in their peckets have bought, improved and prof. for twenty, and even forty, acres of land, and make a landsome competence heside, and you need not try to count them on your linguest ends, for they already number by the hundred within a radius of ten turbes of this city. Millions have been added to the wealth of this county by these hardy pioneers in our great fruit and raisin industry. It is to them we own our presweath of this county by fless hardy pioneers in our great fruit and raisin industry. It is to them we own our present prospority and future greatness. It is they who have borne the heat and burden at the day and carried us through all the singes of experimental growth and placed our feet upon the solid ground of underpated prosperity. It is they who have fought ausiliart adversity and "doubting Thomasse," and at this have proved to the world that this once arid plain, parched and almost unitabilitable, through the magic touch of water has been transformed into a verifiable tiarden of Eden.

Yet they are not sitting down on the benefited by their experience.

Of course, mistakes are made and an ecasional failures may occur, but that locs not prove any part of a failure upon the whole.

R has been our pleasme to see and note the tirift and beauty of many of the small vineyards in the vicinity of Oleander, and among these worthy on the is the young and beautiful "Bells H. Ymoyard," owned by Mr. J. H. Harding, About two years ago we visited this place, which Mr. Harding had just sarred, and what we then aw convinced us that Mr. H. Ind started off on the right foot for success. That prediction has been more than fulfilled, for what was then like the merest beginning in now a beautiful home, with a tasty cotage nesting among a lusurious growth of trees and vinea, which cannot be surpassed for their age in any country. Just invo and a half years ago Mr. Harding purchased this place of forty acres, the only improvements on it being ten acres to believe the plane to beginn the size.

All this has been done with a capital of less than $500, and only demonstrate: of less than $500, and only demonstrate-what may be done by thousands of others who have the necessary industry and perseverance. Mr. H. does all his own building, planting and other im-proximents, besides pruning many other-occlards in the colony, bring ex-perienced in that work and thorough in overthing clse he undertakes. Every tree and vne upon his place shows the touch of dilligent exes. One of the bentilely features is the magnificient town tree and vine upon his place shows the touch of dilligent ears. One of the mentiful features is the magnificient row of univeilla trees alone the avonue, which, for yenetry and beauty, cannot be surrossed by any similar row in the county. Then he has a marvel in grape growth of two vines of the Black Prince vinist, planted troe years ago last March, that now cover an entire last March, that now cover an entire arbor locatifeet, and are loaded with about 500 pounds of grapes, the large clusters having through the lattice in a port of mass. I shall never forget an incident of my claid hood, when I found a little katten away out on an open prairie, where it had evidently been carried away and left to starve and die, because nobudy i wanted it. It was muthing but a little abalatan and so frantic with hunger that that ovacenty were carried and and another their to starry and the, because mobility wanted it. It was nothing but a little skeleton, and so framile with bunger that I had to wrap it in a showl to keep it from eating my bands, as I carried the little thing back to civilization and food

Not a day passes but something similar to this occurs. The ladies of the Fresno Redief Suciety some time ago took up this question, and a committee was appointed to write to Secretary Hunter of San Francisco and get his advice in regard to the best method of forming such a society. I have in my possession at present two very kind letters from time, and the papers and by laws of their society. Quite recently a gentleman donated to us, of his own tree will, the sum of $80, $10 of which was to be used by the Heling Searchy, and $50 toward organizing a branch of was to be used by the Relief Spencky, and $50 toward organizing a branch of the Society for Protection to Animula, and also a society for protection to children and old ladies. It was accompanied with the kindly older of hore funds in the future at our disposal. Now, it is a hard matter for ladies to accomplish much toward this alone. Several of us are ready to do all we can but the officers of a society for aione. Saveral of na uru ready to do all we can, but the officers of a society for prevention of cruelly to animals must be men. This most expensive feature is comploying a Secretary who can be paid to devote at least half his time to this work alone. It some of the gentlemen, who are interested in this work, will step forward and take command, call a tracting and proceed to raise money to defray necessary expenses, this $50 will head the list, and I will give $5 every month towards the salary of a Secretary, and I know just the man of a Secretary.

AN APPRAIL TO ORGANIZE is no place where it is needed more. Let us bear from others who are interested. The one who wrote the article in the paper on the evening of the 3d and signed himself "A Friend to the Animal," would doubtless be a good worker in this. Naw, Mr. RECEBEAS, I leave in this. Naw, Mr. RECEBLOOK, I leave the matter with your and your readers for the present, knowing it will be in 1900 lands. Mrs. A. G. Dearmont s.
